

Disclaimer

The The Centre provides information about government grants and assistance programs for Canadian Businesses and their owners.

We do not provide grants, loans or funding, but rather provide access to information about government programs available. We do not guarantee that any individual or companies will receive funding from any government body or agency. The The Centre makes every reasonable effort to ensure that the information we provide to our clients is up to date and accurate. We cannot be held responsible for any errors, changes or omissions in our publications or web-site as the government regularly makes changes to programs, eliminates some, and adds others.

As many programs are allocated a set amount of funding annually, it is possible that a given program will be complete for the year. Programs of this sort can be applied to again in the following year. In order to make sure that the information you are using is correct, we encourage you to verify all facts and figures with the applicable government agency before making any business decisions.